KING STREET FOODFIESTA

Valley Fiesta Opening Night Street Party!

Valley Fiesta has revealed its party-packed plans for 2022 showcasing the best of Brisbane's music and arts scene. Extending the program in celebration of its 25th anniversary, King Street is thrilled to be hosting the opening night party.

Gather, feast, groove and enjoy the King Street Food Fiesta — a string of pop-up bars, two live music stages, street food stalls and roving entertainment that promises to deliver amazing flavours, sweet sounds, and all round good vibes from 4pm to 9pm on Friday, November 25.

Take your taste buds on tour as foodie retailers from the well-known King Street dining strip will pop out to serve up street food-inspired tasting plates from $6.

Kuhl-Cher

Vegan friends, Kuhl-Cher has got you covered with mouth-watering southern-fried or vegan chicken and coleslaw plates, available for $12.

Beerhaus

$1 wings with any beer purchase? Yes please! Perfect for a nibble before walking around exploring the art and music on offer. available in-venue only

La Macelleria

Keep an eye out for the La Macelleria gelato cart which will be serving up a variety of authentic-Italian flavours for $6.50 a scoop - the perfect way to end the night!

MUSIC FOR YOUR MOUTH

Street Food Taste Trail

Alongside the enticing eats, the street will come alive when 8 of Brisbane's best emerging artists perform live.

Il Verde

Enjoy a taste of the Amalfi Coast with Il Verde's Spritz pop-up bar. There will be four delectable options on offer to pair with their famous arancini balls ($6).

Six Acres

In partnership with Stone & Wood, Six Acres is popping up on King St with a beer bar and classic Aussie bites. The beef sliders (2 for $12) and crunchy fries with parmigiano cheese and truffle oil are simply not to be missed!

Welcome to Bowen Hills

Queensland gin company Sunshine & Sons is partnering with Welcome to Bowen Hills to bring you three sensational gin sips alongside their famous smoked brisket sangas ($12).

Supercombo

Our favourite American burger joint is dishing up their crowd-favourite chicken wings for $8 and super fries or gems for $12 - yum!

Xin Chao

Known for food that satisfies all the senses, Xin Chao will be offering seafood or vegetarian netted spring rolls for $10 as well as their signature bao buns for $12 with your choice of grilled chicken or tofu!

WE'RE BRINGING THE STREET TO LIFE WITH NEW CONTEMPORARY ARTWORKS FROM WORLD-RENOWNED ARTISTS

Our urban neighbourhood has art, culture, music and entertainment coursing through its veins, powered by good food, and with a welcoming community at its heart.

We are so excited to be introducing two brand new art installations to the street for the start of summer and the silly season!

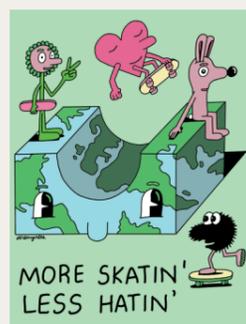

Community Service Announcements by Jeremyville

Jeremyville is an internationally renowned Australian artist, designer and author. Splitting his time between his home in Bondi and New York City, he runs a creative design studio alongside his creative partner Megan Mair, developing art driven projects for clients around the world.

concepts such as self empowerment, personal growth, human virtue, love, loss and what it means to be human through simple imagery and words. It's a project with messaging so apparent for our post-pandemic society that is now seen on sculptures, installations and street art around the world - and now on King St!

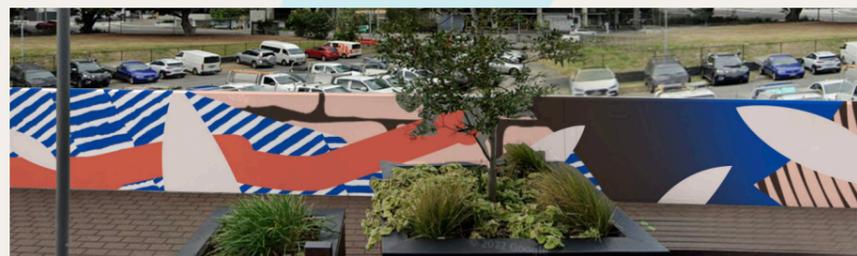

Community Service Announcements started in 2010 as a daily online project, with the aim to explore

Be sure to keep an eye out for the installation in late-November.

Past is Present by Elliot Routledge

Past is Present is a colourful piece that rearranges historical visual data into modern contemporary forms. They weave together to build a patchwork of memories which provoke nostalgia whilst encouraging the sense of a modern city. This particular piece, which has been commissioned for the 1 King St hoarding, is inspired by the four pillars of the Brisbane Showgrounds in a unique, contemporary abstract style.

COUNTRY AND CITY REUNITE ONCE AGAIN TO SHOW THEIR LOVE FOR EKKA

Following three long years without an Ekka, Queenslanders celebrated the historic return of the 143rd Royal Queensland Show with more than 340,000 people coming together over nine days.

RNA Chief Executive Brendan Christou said after such a challenging time, it was wonderful to finally throw open the gates and reunite the country and the city in a celebration of agriculture. "Ekka is a beloved Queensland institution, and it has been dearly missed by many," he said.

What was most popular at the EKKA?

- > 180,000+ Dagwood Dogs eaten
- > 140,000+ Strawberry Sundaes eaten
- > 32,000+ cheese toasties (two tonne of butter and four tonne of cheese)
- > 180,000+ schooners of beer
- > 35,000+ cans of rum
- > 3 tonnes + of fireworks used each night
- > 32,000 + glasses of wine
- > 6,000 + tasting plates of award-winning steak and lamb

IT'S BEGINNING TO LOOK A LOT LIKE CHRISTMAS...

$20M MYSTERY PLEDGE SETS OLD MUSEUM ON NEW COURSE

The grand old lady of our state's cultural history, the Old Museum, could be restored to its former glory after a mystery donor pledged $20 million to support its main tenant, the Queensland Youth Orchestra.

The recently published state budget included $1.6 million to investigate the feasibility of restoring the 130-year-old building, a move welcomed by those campaigning for the museum's heritage and cultural value to be shown more respect. But it is the $20 million commitment to support Queensland Youth Orchestras – made by a philanthropist who insists on anonymity – that sparked excitement about the Old Museum's future.

While it is currently being used as a performance and event venue and a film set, restoration of the building would give Brisbane something it does not currently have – a medium sized concert hall capable of housing a symphony orchestra.

Queensland Youth Orchestras president and former arts minister Ian Walker said the budget funding for the business case – coupled with the $20 million private pledge – presented a "once-in-a-generation" opportunity to conserve and revitalise The Old Museum's rich heritage.

"The Old Museum contains Brisbane's first Concert Hall, in which stars like Dame Nellie Melba and Percy Grainger performed between 1891 and 1934," he said

"QYO has used the building for rehearsals, performances and administration since 1989, so we are also a big part of the building's history."

He said a full restoration of the building would open it up to all of Queensland and would be invaluable to the orchestras, chamber groups, school bands and community organisations for whom the QPAC Concert Hall is too big and too expensive to hire.

WEAR IT PURPLE DAY

We love seeing our community come together to support important causes. Lendlease volunteers walked the streets of the King St precinct handing out coffee vouchers and promoting the importance of Wear it Purple Day. We also provided the Fortitude Valley State High School with Wear it Purple packs and information to encourage conversations about the LGBTQIA+ community at school with friends and teachers. For more information on Wear it Purple Day head to their website here ←

R U OK? DAY

R U OK? Day this year was acknowledged in King St with a joint activation between Lendlease and Aurecon. Mental health first aiders paved the street, armed with coffee vouchers and yellow cupcakes, asking everyone as they arrived at work 'R U OK?' It was so great to see many workers, residents and guests on the street stop and talk to each as they started their day. Taking the time to engage and just chat is the whole point of this day. For more information on R U OK? Day head to their website here →

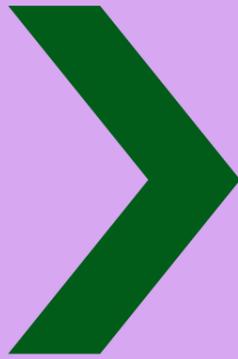

ROSIE'S STORY

Rosies - Friends on the Street, is a grassroots organisation that has been supporting those who are homeless, at risk of homelessness, or are experiencing hardship and social isolation through street outreach since 1987. November marks their 35th birthday and we have some wonderful things in store to help celebrate - part of which includes pop up activations on King St!

COMMUNITY DAY 2022

Lendlease has a long history of volunteering and supporting our local communities. First held in 1996, Community Day is when our employees all around the world come together to work on projects identified as important by local community members. We had over two dozen Lendlease employees participate in Community Day this year. These employees worked for two Brisbane community organisations, Suited to Success and 3rd Space. Volunteers worked hard, putting furniture together, painting, gardening and cleaning. We also contributed $2,000 in supplies and materials to both organisation's for use on these days.

WHAT'S ON AT KING STREET

CELEBRATE NATIONAL CROISSANT DAY AT KING ST BAKERY | JANUARY 30

Brisbane's favourite pastry palace, King St Bakery, is famous for its covetable viennoiseries, sweet and savoury tarts and à la carte Parisian-inspired fare for breakfast and lunch. But it's their croissants that constantly have people flocking to the King St foodie precinct. Hop in line and get your hands on one of their perfectly flakey, golden croissants on Monday, January 30 - it's National Croissant Day, after all.

A NEW EXHIBITION HAS ARRIVED AT ARTISAN'S MAIN GALLERY | NOVEMBER TO MARCH 4

SPECULATIVE ARCHEOLOGY, a new exhibition by Bruce Reynolds hijacks our attention with elements of familiarity, through its beautifully elegant and carefully crafted use of texture, motif, colour and form. Closer inspection exposes the vases and vessels as ambiguous, as it becomes obvious that the forms merely allude to the many layered histories they reference. The impression is that we are well acquainted with these objects, and yet, we are not. You won't want to miss out.
